Chapter 1 Title Here

This is your sample chapter text here. Please replace it with your own original, or Private Label Rights content. As you can see, you may need to play around a little bit with the font used within this template due to the background image.

There is no actual "indent" on the paragraphs created. They are simple spaces created using the "space bar". Each paragraph has a 4 space indent placed in by hitting the "space bar" 4 times. You can adjust this also by simply backspacing.

The font used within this particular template is called "Goobascrip". The reason it was selected was because it looks most like actual physical writing someone might do when writing on physical notebook paper.

Again, the words won't exactly line up with the actual lines in the background notebook paper graphic, but that's okay, because it adds to the uniqueness of the overall ebook looks.

Remember, play around with the font style, sizes, colors, and other aspects to see what you can come up with to make this template look like nothing anyone has ever seen before!

You can add as much text as you want to your chapters. There are no tables inside this particular ebook template. What you see is what you get! And so adding and editing your original content should be really simple :-).

Also, when you add enough text and it automatically creates a new page, you will want to add some "carriage returns" so that your text doesn't appear on the top of the notebook paper background. About 1 or 2 returns (that's hitting the "Enter" key for those of you that don't know) should do the trick.

The line spacing for the text has been set to "Single Spacing". You can change this by "Right Clicking" anywhere inside this area and selecting "Line Spacing" from the pop up menu that will appear.

As you will soon see, this is the portion of the template where you will need to add some "Carriage Returns" to your text so that it doesn't appear on the top line of the notebook paper background so that it keeps the look and feel of an actual handwritten document.

Like you see it here! Pretty cool, but I bet you could make this template even better :-).

This is the end of this sample chapter. Again, there are no tables that comprise this template, so feel free to simply delete this text and add your own unique content.
